It will be noted that the final figures are in many cases different from those originally anticipated. The difference may have been caused by the fact that the first set of figures were the maximum export figures allowed while the figures in this report are the planned exports. This supposition, is, however, not supported in every case. For example, in the case of oxalic acid, the maximum amount for export was given as 900 tons whereas the final figure is placed at 1,750 tons.
